Will we use Afghan soil not used for terror: MEA

PRESTRIK OF INDIA
New Delhi, 2 September

India on Thursday said its immediate focus relating to Afghanistan is to ensure that Afghan soil is not used for terrorist activities against it, two days after the Indian envoy to Qatar held talks with a top Taliban leader in Doha and conveyed similar concerns.

To a volley of questions at a media briefing on whether India was ready to recognise a Taliban regime in the backdrop of the Doha meeting, spokesperson in the Ministry of External Affairs Arindam Bagchi said it is too early to talk about it. "Let's treat the Doha meeting for what it is. It was just a meeting. I think these are very early days," he said. "We used the opportunity to convey our concerns whether it is in getting people out from Afghanistan or on the issue of terrorism. We received a positive response," he said.

Asked about India's

China eyeing Bagram base, may use Pakistan against India: Haley

The US needs to closely watch China as it might try to take over the Bagram air force base in Afghanistan following the Taliban's takeover of the war-torn country and use Pakistan to get stronger to go against India, a former senior American diplomat has warned.

America's former envoy to the United Nations Nikki Haley (pictured) said President Joe Biden has lost the trust and confidence of American allies after his hasty decision to withdraw troops from Afghanistan. "The US needs to make sure that Americans are protected and the country's cybersecurity is strong," because actors like Russia are going to continue to hack us because we show no signs of willingness to fight back, she said. "We need to watch China because I think you are going to see China make a move for Bagram Air Force Base. I think they are also making a move in Afghanistan and trying to use Pakistan to get stronger to go against India. So, we have got a lot of issues," she said.

Haley slammed Biden for his disastrous withdrawal of US forces from Afghanistan. "By the end of that speech that President Biden gave, 'We the beginning of the lame-duck presidency for Joe Biden,'" she said.

engagement with the Taliban and whether it is not a terrorist organisation, Bagchi said: "That's not our focus. Our focus is that Afghan soil should not be used for terrorist activities of any kind."

On Tuesday, the MEA said Indian envoy to Qatar Deepak Mittal met Sher Mohammad Abbas Stanekzai, the head of the Taliban's Political Office in Doha, at the request of the group.

In the meeting, Mittal conveyed to Stanekzai that Afghanistan's soil should not be used for anti-Indian activities and terrorism. It was the first publicly acknowledged formal diplomatic engagement that came two weeks after the Taliban seized control of Afghanistan.

When pressed further on whether India will have more meetings with the Taliban, Bagchi said he does not have any update to share and that he does want to speculate.

under Section 412) of the Competition Act, stated the complaint.

An email query to Parle remained unanswered till the time of going to press. A spokesperson for Udaan declined to comment on the development.

In the complaint, Udaan has alleged that the selective course of agreement of Parle with selected distributors and denial to deal with Udaan directly and forcing it to buy products from Parle's distributors in the open market is a case of constructive refusal to deal and anti-competitive in terms of Section 34 of the Competition Act, having appreciable adverse effect on competition in India.

Udaan has alleged it tried to engage with Parle for this last 24 months to work this out in a "fair and justified" manner, but Parle has continued to discriminate.

Recently, CCI imposed a fine of ₹200 crore on the country's biggest e-commerce company, Amazon India (MSL), for anti-competitive practices related to how it forced dealers to discount cars. The CCI order in August contained several extracts of several emails exchanged between dealers and Maruti executives, which made it "evident that the discount control policy was controlled" by MSL and not its dealers.

Udaan's strong supply-chain network in the fast-moving consumer goods sector has a coverage of 50 cities. The overall supply network spans over 900 cities, covering over 12,000 pincodes. The firm has said it not only ensures timely delivery, but also provides quality and fresh products to buyers at a better price.

"Traditionally, wholesalers are the most profitable players in the market ecosystem. Retailers would make very little profit," he said in the complaint, adding, "This implies that Udaan will remain forced from more than 83 per cent of the relevant market."

The operator, which had protested against differential pricing, had said it was ready to go with the industry if the regulator or the government came out with an institutional mechanism to check such arbitrary schemes. However the current Trai order might not be enough for them to take the plunge.

Even so, the Trai order is significant as it comes in the backdrop of incumbent operators Bharti Airtel and Vodafone India pushing for an across-the-board increase in tariffs. In an analyst call recently, Bharti Airtel chairman Sunil Mittal said he was looking for a Trai order that would be the key to survival. He pointed out that average revenue per user (ARPU) is ₹200 by the end of the financial year and then to ₹300 for the industry to thrive, Bharti Airtel's ARPU is around ₹8-14n currently. A similar call also came from VIL, which has said that any change of the company raising ₹25,000 crore from new investors hinges on the industry increasing tariffs.

The two players have also been pushing for a minimum floor price but the regulator has ruled out such a move. The reason, say analysts, is that the two of the three companies have been making profits and are therefore not selling below the cost price. Telecom tariff has been under pressure.

In 2018 also, the Centre had suggested to telcos to review tariffs as low rates were destructive for the industry and were affecting the government's revenue collections. Telecom firms are in a revenue-sharing arrangement with the government. Estimates suggest that at least 35 per cent of their revenues go towards various levies to the government.

Telcos had arrived at a consensus to raise tariff by around 20 per cent in December 2019. That was not enough to get financially distressed firms to dofone. Idea out of the woods, analysts pointed out.

Recently, telcos have taken baby steps to increase tariffs. In the last few weeks, Bharti Airtel and Vodafone India increased tariffs in certain limited segments.

Telcos offering segmented tariff offerings have become a bone of contention for a while. In 2018, Trai had sent notices to Bharti Airtel and Vodafone India, pulling them apart for failing to comply with the tariff reporting norms (where a new tariff plan has to be communicated to the regulator). It had threatened to impose a fine to get them to comply.

Subsequently, Airtel appealed and was able to get an interim relief from the telecom tribunal TDSAT.

In November 2020, the Supreme Court, where the regulator went in appeal, made it clear that Trai can ask for details on segmented tariffs for record. But it would be Trai's duty to keep the information confidential, the top court had said.

Trai order...

To participate in the bidding process, buyers will have to register on the e-bidding platform. To check the platform's preparedness, demonstrations have been conducted by Dipam. "The platform is ready to hold such auctions, and only final approval is awaited," the official said.

As the final sale would involve only "clean" or litigation-free assets, Dipam is simultaneously working on setting up a new special purpose vehicle (SPV) that will be tasked with selling litigation-marred and bad assets of PSUs and government departments. The SPV will have experienced professionals who would help PSUs in disposing of their surplus land assets stuck in dispute or having issues with regard to land titles.
